FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA	:
v.	:	CRIMINAL NO. 20-392
SHAHIDUL GAFFAR	:
NABILA KHAN

GOVERNMENT’S SENTENCING MEMORANDUM

I. Introduction

On November 18, 2020, the defendants, SHAHIDUL GAFFAR and NABILA KHAN, pled guilty to a one-count Information, charging them each with 18 U.S.C. § 371, conspiracy to commit a crime against the United States, namely to provide material support to a foreign terrorist organization in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2339B. During their plea colloquies, the defendants admitted that they conspired to provide money in support of KHAN’s two brothers who traveled to Syria to join the Islamic State of Iraq and al-Sham, also known as ISIS or ISIL (hereinafter, “ISIS”). The defendants entered their guilty pleas pursuant to plea agreements and are scheduled to be sentenced on September 9, 2021.

II. Facts of the Case

In 2015, two brothers, JK and IK, traveled from their family home in Bangladesh to Syria to join ISIS and fight on the battlefield. JK left first, in February 2015, and IK followed him several months later, in July 2015. Although they traveled to Syria alone, these two brothers had the support of their family – including their sister, defendant NABILA KHAN, and her husband, defendant SHAHIDUL GAFFAR. Not only were the defendants well aware of the brothers’ radicalization and intention to join ISIS prior to their departures, but they also conspired to provide money to the brothers for their travel to join ISIS, and did in fact provide money to IK for that purpose.

NABILA KHAN first learned of JK's intention to travel to Syria in late September 2014. In October 2014, KHAN exchanged private electronic messages with a family member in which they discussed how KHAN and her family could support JK's travel to Syria. In January 2015, KHAN requested that a family member sell KHAN's gold jewelry in Bangladesh and give the proceeds to JK for his travel to Syria. Later that month, KHAN traveled to Bangladesh to see JK and wish him farewell before his departure for Syria in early February 2015.

Shortly thereafter, on February 6, 2015, SHAHIDUL GAFFAR exchanged multiple private messages with KHAN's mother ("YPK") discussing JK's departure for Syria to join ISIS, including the following statements as translated into English in part:

GAFFAR: Peace be unto you Ma. How are you? May Allah give you and father lots of strength if Allah wills.

YPK: Amen. Peace be unto you. How are you? Babu [GAFFAR] pray that I don't get defeated by Satan at the time of death. From your heart pray for [JK].

GAFFAR: If Allah wills Ma. May Allah [g]rant [JK] highest status. Be [p]roud mother for the noble cause and for the sake of Allah!!!

In February 2015, KHAN's other brother, IK, who had resided with KHAN and GAFFAR in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania for eight months to attend school, departed the United States and returned to the Khan family home in Bangladesh. On February 23 and 24, 2015, GAFFAR exchanged multiple messages with IK, discussing IK's return to Bangladesh and GAFFAR's feelings about being left behind in "the land of great unbelievers." Later that month, KHAN, who was still in Bangladesh, observed IK watching videos featuring Anwar al-Awlaki, a specially designated global terrorist under Executive Order 13224 as a “key leader” of a foreign terrorist organization that justified violent jihad against the United States, and videos regarding death and paradise. From March through July 2015, GAFFAR sent multiple wire transfers to IK in Bangladesh. These funds had multiple purposes, but one purpose was to support IK’s travel to Syria to join ISIS.

On June 30, 2015, GAFFAR sent an electronic message to KHAN, which read in part, as translated, “Let [IK] know that I will manage and send 3000 dollars if Allah wills. Let’s help him, my love, for the good cause who knows that might be enough to get forgiveness from Allah and accept[ance] [in]to heaven.” On July 1, 2015, KHAN sent GAFFAR a message which read, as translated in part: “[IK] said if everything goes smoothly, he will leave [for Syria] next week.” In response, GAFFAR sent KHAN an online newspaper article about a family of 12 who traveled from the United Kingdom to live with ISIS in Syria. On July 2, 2015, KHAN and GAFFAR exchanged messages and discussed IK’s departure to Syria to join ISIS. GAFFAR stated, as translated in part: “But one thing makes [all] of us strong, we are not losing him [IK] rather [a]ppreciating for the cause of Allah[’]s work.” GAFFAR continued, “May Allah give all of us strength to handle our emotions. I feel bad for mom and dad, at the same time, I feel very proud. [W]hat a lucky mom and dad.”

On July 3, 2015, GAFFAR sent KHAN an electronic message, stating, as translated: “But what we can do is to [a]ppreciate and be proud of his [IK’s] decisions.” GAFFAR continued, “May Allah [a]ccept him and may his [a]cceptance be the guidance for our desire to enter [h]eaven as well.” KHAN replied, as translated, “Amen.” GAFFAR then commented that it was “cool” that KHAN was able to observe IK’s radical Islamist “changes” from “beginning to end.” KHAN then remarked that she hoped their action in joining ISIS would grant JK and IK “higher status” in heaven.

On July 7, 2015, IK departed Bangladesh for Syria. The next day, GAFFAR and KHAN discussed (via electronic messages) how defendant KHAN had tried to give IK more money right before he left. On July 16, 2015, KHAN exchanged multiple private electronic messages with a family member, discussing IK’s arrival in Syria and reunion there with JK.

For the next few years, JK and IK remained in Syria under the control of ISIS. During this time, ISIS was waging a violent jihad against the West in furtherance of its terroristic agenda. Much of the fighting occurred in Syria, where foreign fighters, like IK and JK, were on the ground battling an international coalition of forces, including the United States military. Although many of the details of IK’s and JK’s involvement in the fighting remain classified or unknown, it is clear that they were in fact on the battlefield fighting on behalf of ISIS for some period during their time in Syria. Countless soldiers and civilians died during these battles. Many more died in the aftermath, due to shortages of food, water and medical care. IK died as a result of the fighting; JK has been missing for years and is presumed deceased.

III. Sentencing Calculation

A. Statutory Maximum Sentence

The Court may impose the following maximum sentence for each defendant: 5 years imprisonment, a 3-year period of supervised release, a $250,000 fine, and a $100 special assessment. In addition, defendant NABILA KHAN is not a citizen of the United States, and deportation or removal from the United States will likely be ordered as a result of conviction in this case. Finally, the defendants' supervised release may be revoked if the terms and conditions are violated, in which case the original term of imprisonment may be increased by up to 2 years.

B. Sentencing Guidelines Calculation

The government agrees with Probation's findings in the Presentence Reports ("PSRs") that the following Sentencing Guidelines calculation applies to both defendants:

Base Offense Level	§ 2M5.3	26
Offense involved provision of material support or resources with intent or knowledge that they were to be used to assist in a violent act.	§ 2M5.3(b)(1)(E)	+2
Offense was felony intended to promote federal crime of terrorism	§ 3A1.4	+12
Acceptance of Responsibility	§ 3E1.1	-3
TOTAL OFFENSE LEVEL		37

Offense was felony intended to promote federal crime of terrorism	§ 3A1.4(b)	Crim. History Category VI
---	------------	----------------------------------

With an offense level of 37, and a Criminal History Category of VI, the defendants would face an advisory sentencing range of 360 – life. However, because the defendants' sentences are capped by statute at 5 years, their guideline range becomes 5 years, or 60 months of incarceration.

IV. Analysis Under 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)

While the sentencing guidelines serve as “the starting point and the initial benchmark,” Gall v. United States, 128 S. Ct. 586, 596 (2007), this Court must also consider all of the sentencing factors set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). Those factors include: (1) the nature and circumstances of the offense and the history and characteristics of the defendant; (2) the need for the sentence imposed to reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense; (3) the need to afford adequate deterrence to criminal conduct, and to protect the public from further crimes of the defendant; (4) the need to provide the defendant with educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner; (5) the guidelines and policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission; (6) the need to avoid unwarranted sentence disparities among defendants with similar records who have been found guilty of similar conduct; and (7) the need to provide restitution to any victims of the offense. 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a).

A. The Nature and Circumstances of the Offense

As discussed above and in the PSRs, the offense in this case involved the provision of support to ISIS, a foreign terrorist organization. Although the amount of funds provided by the defendants was relatively small, any provision of support to a terrorist organization is significant, as it helps sustain and promote the terrorists' agenda. In this case, the defendants' actions assisted in sending two young men to Syria to fight on the battlefield. Foreign fighters like JK and IK enabled ISIS to prolong the fighting in Syria and continue spreading its violent radical ideology. Thus, the defendants' conduct ultimately contributed to the violence in Syria and the continuation of the ISIS agenda. The nature and circumstances of the defendants' offense warrants a sentence of incarceration.

However, the defendants are not entirely on equal footing when it comes to the criminal conduct in this case. As explained in the PSRs, the offense was predicated by the radicalization of defendant NABILA KHAN's brothers. KHAN was the first to express a desire to support them. Throughout the conspiracy, their communications demonstrate that KHAN was the initiator of support for the brothers; GAFFAR followed her lead. Indeed, as stated in the PSRs and to agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), GAFFAR agreed to help support the brothers' travel "to please his wife." GAFFAR PSR at ¶ 56. At one point, KHAN repeatedly insulted GAFFAR for his financial failures, ridiculing him as a failed Muslim husband. See Ex. A at 160-161. She threatened to abandon him and stay in Bangladesh with their children. Id. at 163-165. She blamed him for his inaccurate predictions the year before that "no one will go" to Syria. Id. at 159 and 165. She blasted him for his worldly failures, contrasting them with her brothers' achievement of higher status in heaven. Id. at 165. Had it not been for KHAN's initiation and perpetuation, it seems highly unlikely that GAFFAR would have sought to provide material support to the brothers. Thus, KHAN is more culpable than GAFFAR.

That said, it appears that KHAN's main motivation for providing funds to her brothers was to show her love and support of them as family members. She was clearly distraught when they left and sought comfort by telling herself and GAFFAR that JK and IK would attain a higher status in heaven due to their sacrifice. Although motivation is not an element of the offense and certainly does not excuse criminal conduct, it plays an important part at sentencing, as it provides a fuller picture of the nature and circumstances of the offense.

B. The History and Characteristics of the Defendants

SHAHIDUL GAFFAR is a native of Bangladesh who moved to the United States in or about 1995 and became a naturalized U.S. citizen in 2002. He currently resides in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania with his wife and their four children. As noted in the PSR, GAFFAR has no criminal history. He works in the food service industry and is currently the manager and part-owner of a restaurant. Other than government assistance, he is the sole financial provider for his family. He has struggled financially for many years and filed for bankruptcy on three occasions.

NABILA KHAN is a native of Bangladesh and the wife of co-defendant GAFFAR. In 2006, following their 2005 arranged marriage, KHAN immigrated to the United States and resided with GAFFAR in Pennsylvania. In 2007, KHAN became a lawful permanent U.S. resident. KHAN is a full-time homemaker and takes care of their four children. She has no criminal history. As discussed above, between the two defendants, KHAN is the more culpable offender, as she initiated the provision of material support to her brothers for their travel to Syria to join ISIS.

C. The Seriousness of the Offense and the Need to Promote Respect for the Law

Without a doubt, the provision of material support to a foreign terrorist organization is an extremely serious offense. Here, the defendants assisted two healthy capable young men in traveling to Syria to fight on behalf of ISIS. Whether or not they personally supported the ISIS agenda, their actions ultimately contributed to the support of ISIS. As immigrants to the U.S., both GAFFAR and KHAN must have known that they are incredibly fortunate to live in a country that affords them freedom and opportunity. They chose to live here. They chose to raise their family here. And yet, they chose to betray this country by supporting ISIS in its violent war against the West. This is an offense that cannot go unpunished; there must be significant consequences.

D. Deterrence

Based on the defendants' acceptance of responsibility [REDACTED], it appears that they are truly contrite. Accordingly, the government does not believe that the defendants need specific deterrence. However, sentences of incarceration would send an important message in furtherance of general deterrence. Foreign terrorist organizations continue to draw support from all over the world. By sentencing these defendants to incarceration, the Court would make clear that supporting foreign terrorist organizations through the provision of funds, however small, or personnel, even family, is criminal and will not be ignored.

E. The Defendants' Need for Educational or Vocational Training and Medical Care

As discussed in the PSR, both defendants are in good health. GAFFAR has a college degree and has owned and managed a restaurant for years. By contrast, KHAN has limited education (through the eighth grade) and has never maintained a position of employment; as GAFFAR explained, KHAN is “completely dependent” on him. KHAN PSR ¶ 57. Thus, if sentenced to a period of incarceration, KHAN may benefit from some educational and vocational training offered by the designated institution.

F. The Need to Avoid Unwarranted Sentence Disparities

Finally, imposition of a sentence of incarceration best serves “the need to avoid unwarranted sentence disparities among defendants with similar records who have been found guilty of similar conduct.” 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(6). The guidelines, as stipulated in the plea agreement, result in a range of 360-life; however, as discussed above, that is dramatically reduced to five years due to the statutory maximum allowed for violations of 18 U.S.C. § 371. The parties agreed that the appropriate resolution was a plea to § 371, as opposed to § 2339B, because the facts in this case are somewhat unique in the realm of material support of terrorism prosecutions. In other cases, the material support involved the provision of weapons, lodging, safehouses, the defendants themselves as foreign fighters and/or significant funds to terrorist organizations. See, e.g., United States v. Moalin et al., S.D.C.A. Dkt. No. 10-4246 (defendants who provided nearly $16,000 to Al-Shabaab in Somalia were convicted of §§ 2339A, 2339B and 956 and sentenced to 13 years' imprisonment); United States v. Ahmed et al., E.D.N.Y. Dkt. No. 12-661 (defendants who traveled from Europe to Somalia to join Al-Shabaab were sentenced to 108 months' imprisonment); United States v. Damache et al., E.D.P.A. Dkt. No. 11-240 (defendants who conspired to set up terrorist training camp and recruit individuals for jihad were convicted of § 2339A and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment ranging from 5-15 years). In this case, however, the offense did not involve a substantial amount of money and the money was sent to support the defendants' family members, who joined a terrorist organization. The defendants' conduct is by no means excusable or insignificant, but it is less substantial than many other material support cases. Accordingly, while the statutory cap already provides a significant benefit to the defendants, the government submits that even the resulting lower guideline range is unnecessary here.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Finally, because KHAN was more culpable than GAFFAR, the government submits that she should be sentenced to a longer term than him.

VI. Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the government respectfully submits that a sentence of 24-36 months' incarceration for defendant GAFFAR and a sentence of 36-48 months' incarceration for defendant KHAN would be appropriate in this case. Given the fact that the defendants have four minor children, the government is not opposed to staggered sentences, so that one parent can remain with the children.
